M.A. in International Studies

Learning Outcomes

Students will:

• Be able to analyze the multiple ways in which inequality and oppression work and to strategize for social change.

• Be able to work with different partners in order to produce collaborative intellectual work.

• Be socially responsible ethical frameworks that are informed by historical consciousness of transnational contexts.

• Examine the linkages between theory and practice, scholarship and activism, research and public policy in the field of International Studies.

Last Update: 2014