M.A. in Liberal Studies

Learning Outcomes

Students can:

- Students can analyze and interpret texts in a variety of academic and literary genres.
- Students can understand and use multi-disciplinary and inter-disciplinary approaches to knowledge.
- Students can apply awareness of the social and historical context of cultural phenomena in independent analysis.
- Students can apply awareness of value systems in shaping cultural inquiry in independent analysis.
- Students can write in a variety of academic genres, including expository essays, critical analysis, research papers, etc., culminating in an extended project.
- Students can make effective oral presentation of ideas, and engage in thoughtful oral exchange of ideas.
- Students can incorporate, analyze and properly cite a variety of resources in conducting research.
- Students can apply knowledge of the methods and approaches of at least one particular academic discipline in academic writing projects.