M.S. in International Public Service

Learning Outcomes

Students will be able to:

- Develop communication competencies within diverse, intercultural, and international organizational contexts.
- Apply ethical decision making and the values of global citizenship to professional practice.
- Demonstrate understanding of the role that NGOs play in the public, private, and civil society sectors.
- Apply managerial skills and leadership characteristics in an international and cross-cultural context in areas such as human rights, fair trade, policy advocacy, and community development.
- Apply research strategies in evaluating international initiatives relating to sustainable development.