

TPS @ DePaul University
September 2011

Welcome back!

September is a busy month with many students returning to school, ready for a fresh start. September also brings the unofficial end of summer on Labor Day, September 5th, which is a celebration of the spirit of American labor. You can learn more about the Library of Congress' Labor Day collections and resources via our 2010 and 2007 newsletters.

This year we turn to a more personal look at Chicago, the City that Works, by celebrating the birthdays of two of the city's best known and influential architects and urban planners, Louis H. Sullivan (Sept. 3) and Daniel H. Burnham (Sept. 4.). See the links provided below to their "Today in History" entries and links to collections featuring photos of their influence on the city of Chicago.

Finally, September is National Library Card sign-up month. A library card is one of the most important school supplies of all! The last weekend in September is also the date of the National Book Festival (NBF) in Washington D.C. Be sure to check-out the online guide to learn about participating authors and to get details about hosting your own NBF.
