New Student Discovery Sets Now Available!

The Library has added three new Student Discovery Sets to its collection: Jim Crow and Segregation, Children's Lives at the Turn of the Twentieth Century, and the Industrial Revolution!

Student Discovery Sets are interactive, tablet-ready collections of primary sources that students can explore by zooming in, drawing, highlighting, and analyzing. All Student Discovery Sets are FREE and available on iBooks. Explore and download here.

Not using a tablet? All three of the aforementioned Primary Source Sets have also been updated on the Teachers Page. Check them out here.

The Library will be continually updating and adding to these materials, so check the Teachers Page often!

Memorial Day

The Library has a number of resources that commemorate and memorialize those who have made the ultimate sacrifice for their country. For resources across various historical periods, visit the Veterans History Project, the exhibition "From the Home Front and the Front Lines." or the Library's collection of military campaign maps.

Looking for something more specific? Check out the Civil War online exhibition, watch early films on the Spanish-American War, view posters and soldiers' newspapers from World War I, examine reactions to the attack on Pearl Harbor, or explore the September 11th Documentary Project.
